*Featuring OUTLANDER series Scottish Gaelic Language consultant ÀDAMH Ó BROIN

The Scottish Cultural Centre and the Vancouver Gaelic Society present:

OUTLANDER CEILIDH EVENING
Monday, October 23 7pm
Scottish Cultural Centre, 8886 Hudson Street, Vancouver

Àdhamh Ó Broin, Gaelic Language consultant for Sony Pictures' Outlander gives a lively interactive talk about Scottish Gaelic language used in the television series followed by a Scottish ceilidh. Outlander series set in Gaelic Scotland is based on the immensely popular books by Diana Gabaldon. Scottish Gaelic is a delightful minority language still alive around the world mainly in Scotland and Nova Scotia, and locally British Columbia has a deep history of fluent native gaelic speakers and community.

A WAULKING the CLOTH (aka Milling Frolic) demonstration follows as seen in the series. Gaelic work songs used to prepare the cloth are sung at a long table to a beating rhythm. Led by Bean Taighe (Woman of the House) Robyn Carrigan, instruction will be provided and all are welcome to participate at the table.

Àdhamh Ó Broin will perform Gaelic songs and music along with other members of the Scottish Gaelic community. Refreshments available.

Àdhamh Ó Broin a writer, musician and fluent Scottish Gaelic learner from Cowal in Argyll, he is the first person to raise a family of native speakers of his local Gaelic dialect in 80 years. Àdhamh runs his own consultancy business for all manner of Gaelic language solutions; from film & TV, to translation, tuition, MC, community projects and cultural experiences for visitors to Scotland. He lives in Glasgow with his wife and four children. www.adhamhobroin.scot*
